15 Minutes of Voodoo

9 p.m. Fri., Oct. 27

The Parish at the House of Blues, 225
Decatur St., 310-4999; www.hob.com

During the past year, the monthly "15 Minutes" singer-songwriter night has quietly become one of the most consistently reliable venues for under-the-radar local talent. Ringmaster Jay Fallo typically culls local artists with proven chops to play stripped-down originals sans their backing bands for their allotted quarter hour in a cozy, coffeehouse setting in the intimate Parish room. This special event sees Jay Fallo's JPF Music teaming up with Voodoo Music Experience producers, Rehage Entertainment, to showcase some of the cream of the 15 Minutes' ongoing series alongside some of the mellow acts that will be gracing the stages in City Park this weekend. In the locals' corner, there's Susan Cowsill Band guitarist Chris Knotts; Bipolaroid and Clockwork Elvis bassist DC Harbold; and Joe Adragna, frontman for infectious popsters the Junior League. From the Voodoo lineup, there's the melodic, muted AM (pictured), a former Loyola University student who's moved to Los Angeles and is often compared to Beck; the soulful, folksy pop of Sam and Ruby, and bluesy indie-rockers Dan Dyer. Tickets $5. — Alison Fensterstock
