I won't let the fact that A.R.E. Weapons once dropped a microphone on my head keep me from liking A.R.E. Weapons. I'm more fair than that. I'd probably like their post-electroclash-bad-boy-punk thing better if it wasn't done so ironically. If nothing else, they are entertaining, just don't stand too close to the stage. With Joey Senz and DJ Matt Damhave playing Death Metal and reggae.
